ELECTRONIC MUSIC SCHOOL

The Bootcamp

This 6 weeks (12 classes) online course for beginners offers an overview of all the essential skills to get started as an electronic music producer. Start from zero, and within 6 weeks you'll be finishing your first tracks, and you'll know if making electronic music is for you!

The bootcamp offers an overview of all the basic skills to get started as an electronic music producer. Classes are Tuesday & Thursday, 18h30-20h30, online via Zoom (Belgian time!).

These are small group classes with Oscar from Underdog and his teaching colleagues who will have attention for you and your needs. The interactive classes are complemented with videos you can re-watch between sessions.

What will I learn in the bootcamp?

We start from zero, so you don't need to know anything.

We teach you:

- How to use Ableton Live (the software)
- How to listen to your favourite music more critically, to understand how it's made
- The basics of classic dance genres like Techno, House, and EDM
- How to make drums and beats, all the fundamentals of rhythm
- Music theory for dance music: scales, chords, and chord progressions. It's really not as hard as it sounds, if you have a great teacher!
- Instrumentation, including how to effectively use synthesizers and samplers
- Arrangement, mixing, mastering

We also listen to your homework, give you feedback on your own works in progress, and coach you to take them further, make them better, and really succeed.

Registration

The full price for the bootcamp is 499€, which includes:

- 24 hours of class (12 x 2 hours)
- Individual coaching during the course
- Access to the underdog student material, like presentations, sample packs and project files to support the classwork
- Students are advised to use their own computer with their music software installed (Ableton is recommended - the intro or trial version is sufficient)

Capacity for the bootcamp is limited.
